Tourist Attractions

- The river of five colors: the river of colors is a river that is located in the serrania macarena national park with many pretty colors that are in it mostly because of the clear water and the colorful plants that live along rocks and sand, if you are planning to go here make sure to bring a camera it is a sight to see.
- Salt cathedral: First made in 1816 by miners mining in a salt-mine it has become a must go for tourist attractions on the outskirts of bogota and like its name suggests it's a place to also go pray for all.
- The amazon rainforest: this rainforest is a great place to relax from all the internet since its a rainforest not a city, you can see all the local villagers live without no running water and electricity but they do have monkey island, piranha fishing, and taking boat trips.

Cuisine

When visiting the country of Columbia here some foods you should try here a list to help you.

- Bandeja paisa: the most classic of Columbian foods: it is a good mix of white rice, shredded up meat, pork rind, red beans, chorizo, morcilla (a black-like pudding), fried egg, arepa, and plantain. This meal is supposed to represent peasant food and for people who work in fields

- Ajiaco: Is a plate of chicken, corn, and potato soup with another plate of rice, avocado, arepa, some capers, a side dish of cream and bananas.
- Torta de tres leches (a triple milk cake)
Colombia's triple cake is a delight to have. It is extremely good (mostly because I've had one before) and it is the most delicious thing in your entire life.

Cultural Norms/Traditions:

Eye contact is viewed positively there.

- It is considered polite to leave a small amount of food on your plate when you are finished eating.
- It is courteous to shake hands both meeting and departing.
- Hot chocolate and cheese: cheese is melted in the hot chocolate then dranken then a side of cheese is then eaten with a spoon.
- Celebrating christmas for the whole december yes you heard this right they celebrate it for the ENTIRE month of december so many presents.

Wildlife:

1. yellow striped poison frog: the yellow striped poison frog is an extremely toxic and poisonous the way you can tell or know the frog is by looking at its yellow stripes, even if it might be intoxicating it is actually a great parent for its children who are also very toxic.

2. brazilian wandering spider nicknamed "the banana spider." is highly dangerous to all human beings! They are 6 inches long and have two reasons why they have these names: they wander on your night floor by night, second they love bananas and sometimes are found in shipments of bananas. Their venom is a potent neurotoxin a bite from this 8 legged alien should be considered serious especially for small toddlers.

3. Ah, yes the lobsters of the land, scorpions might look very deadly, but most of these south american insects have just a sting of an average bee or wasp. But don't forget there are many types of scorpion two of which are very toxic (yay), so if you're camping in columbia there is probably a chance that you'll find one of these things in your sleeping bag.
